QUITE A FIRE.

Three Dwelling Houses Destroyed--Loss. $6000. With Some Insurance-Good Work by the Firemen.

At 2:15 yesterday morning the repeated At 2-10 yesterday morning the repeated firing of pistois followed a few minutes later by the alarm of fire, called the fire de-partment to the corner of Taylor and Sec-ond streets to fight one of the hottest fires that Fort Worth has exfires that Forl Worth has ex-perienced in several years. The splendid work done by the firemen under the able leadership of Chief Adams aided by excellent pressure from the waterworks and the two steamers, alone saved this the two steamers, alone saved this city from a disastrous conflagration. The fire evidently started from the explosion of a lamp in the Boyd building, a two-story frame structure on Second street, occupied by Mrs. Chambliss as a boarding house, So rapid was the work of the flames fanned by a stiff wind from the southwest that the immates of the house did not think by a stiff wind from the southwest that the immates of the house did not think of dressing fully, women and men rushing out of the burning house barefooted and with clothing thrown over them in any way. In five minutes the house was a flery furnace and the fireness were scorched in trying to subdue the flames. Overcoats saturated with water were thrown around those most exposed. The flames soon caught a one-story frame cottage adjoining on the west and this building is almost a total loss. Great fields of sparks were carried into the west and this building is almost a total loss. Great fields of sparks were carried into the air and some of them settling on the Dingee two-story frame to the east set it on fire while other sparks failing on the one-story frame of Townsend & Lusher zeros the street on the north set it on fire several times. Keller's wagon shop was burning several times but Mr. Keller had all his workmen fighting the flames and his damage is trifling. The fire being in the midst of a lot of frame structures and the wind blowing high, a second and third nlarm were turned in, and the entire department was soon at work. In an hour the line was tander full control.

CITY ELECTION.

THE CITY DEMOCRATIC TICKET ELECTED.

Two Democratic Nominees for Aldermen Defeated-The Largest Vote Ever Polled in the City of Fort Worth.

Democracy won the day.

It will always win when the party is united and nominates good men.

For several days past it has been plain that all nominees on the ticket who ran in the city as a whole would be elected, the only question being as to what the majorities would be. It was known that the contest for aldermen in the Third and Sixth wards would be close and it was believed it would be so in close and it was believed it would be so in the Fifth, but this proved to be a miscalculation, the Democratic nominee winning by a handsome majority. More About Railroad Extortions. MINEOLA, TEX., March 30, 1801.

Editor Carette. I see from THE GAZETTE that the Rev. Mr. Jarrell has taken it upon himself to become the mouthpiece of the Texas and Pacific railway managers. While there are so many sinners abroad in the land, I should think he had his hands full without de-scending from his high calling, and that he would better serve the interests of his high master by taking up the cause of the poor and needy than by fighting the worldly battles of Mr. J. Gould, for I am sure Mr. Gould has his full share of this world's goods, and that Mr. Jarrell need only inter-set himself about Mr. Gould's interest in st himself about Mr. Gould's interest in the other world, for if all reports are true, Mr. Gould will not have to build a railroad to carry himself to the mansion alloted him hereafter, but that he had rather there was no kind of a road leading to that place. On that road they are said to charge the same for a short head as for a long one, and they stop at all small stations, be it cannon ball

Mr. Jarrell says because I object to paying $40 per car for an eighty-six mile han on lumber. I am rushing into the press to fan the fires of prejectice against the rail charges and manner of conducting business is fanning the fires of prejudice, it is the fault of their rate sheets, and not mine, and they should adjust their rates so that they will not fan the fires. Had I had a desire to fan the prejudices of the people. I would have went further than I did and I would have went farther than I did, and would have related how the Texas and Pacific sent counterfeiters to Lake Fork and had them erect a free school for teaching the people at Lake Fork how to counterfelt the coin of our country, so that they could and did have eight of our Lake Fork boys arrested and kept for some four months in the Federal lail in Tyler. And what had these eight boys done to awaken the wrath of the Texas and Pa-cific! They had gone into the courts, be-fore the juries of the country and asked that

Total to ther words, the heinous offense of suing the least scific.
The only excuse Mr. Jarrell can find for the Texas and Pacific for charging as much for eighty-six miles as for 221 is that they wish to keep the near mills from have an genouply.

All the other words, the indicates the treatment of the Texas and Pacific for charging as much for eighty-six miles as for 221 is that they wish to keep the near mills from have an genouply.

All the other words, the indicates the treatment of the Texas and Pacific for charging as much for eighty-six miles as for 221 is that they wish to keep the near markets, a monopoly, and the property oly of the near markets, a inonopoly the Texas and Pacific, the property of Mr. Gould, setting itself up to protoc the people and to keep down a monopoly The Texas and Pacific a member of the one and the other of the committees that meet almost every day in some city North or outh to regulate charges and to keep down empetition between the railroads, poising a Texas as trying to keep down monopolies! Was anything ever more absurd? I remember the Texas and Pacific once gave this same reason in our supreme court, and I remember the smile that passed over the countenance of the judges. They ought to mye been fined for contempt of court. This answer of Mr. Gould is only a dodge of Mr. Gould's roads, whereby they hope to divide up the people, and to acquire the right to make an unreasonably big charge for a short haul, for they think the farthest mills will side with the roads, and by their influence help to sustain a charge that is unreasonable for the short haul if not for the long. Upon this theory land or other property near our cities would be worth no more than that many hundreds of miles away. In fact, as distance lends euchant-ment to the view, the most distant prop-erty should command the best price. But Mr. Jarrell's answer is so unreasonable is hardly merits further discussion.

a neighbor of mine shipping lumber into Montague or Clay county was recently carged at the rate of $70 per car of 20,000 nounds, yet this lumber had only the Texas pounds, yet this indicer has only the rexist and Pacific and Missouri, Kansas and Texas o pass over. This rate was a few weeks ago not so high, but is the result of the Texas and Pacific's refusal to pro rate with the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, thus rouging the people of Texas out of thousands.

At the same time the Texas and Pacific is At the same time the Texas and Pacific is giving a rate of $44 per car from points in Louisiana to Omana, Neb., by way of Tex-arkana. All this lumber formerly went by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, but now Texas and Pacific sends it via the l Mountain route. Compare this rate of $44 per car from Louisiana to Nebraska with the rate from Lake Fork to Dallas of $40 per eighty-six miles. See how many roads this Omaha lumber must pass over and how many miles over each rand it must pass and see what each road will get per eighty-six mile haul, and compare it with the $75 rate to Montague county, Tex., and see if the people of Texas are being overcharged and if anything ever can be done in Texas with our forests of oak and other timber toward building up manufactories. And it is so with coal, salt, iron and everything we have. These high charges are all brought have. These high charges are all brought about by the refusal of the roads to charge in proportion to the work they do. This is all the people of Texas wish of them and this they should be made to do.

In clearing up their land the farmers of our county burn enough wood every day in the year to run many factories in Fort Worth and Dallas, and if the roads would give us a less rate than $25 per car on this wood it would be shipped to your cities instead of wasted in flame in the open field. It would be a benefit to the cities as well as a benefit to the farmers and would be a source of income to the road. Many Northern cities have a rate road. Many Northern cities have a rate of $6 per car on wood for anything no exceeding 100 miles, while in Texas they charge us on the Texas and Pacific $25 per car on wood for less than 100 miles. Are not these rates extortionate, and is there any wonder that Georgia with its comission, and all the other states are building factories but Texas. Yours truly, R. B. KUTEMAN.

TARRANT COUNTY TEACHERS.

What They Think of the Text Book Question. AZLE, TEX., April 6, 1891 To the Gazette.

I attended the teachers' monthly meeting Saturday, the 4th instant. A goodly number was present. There are about one hundred and forty teachers in this county. At least 90 per cent of them show their onward march in the profession by attending the teachers' institutes. This interest is least up by the profession of the country of is kept up by the untiring diligence of the county and city of Fort Worth superinten-dents. Among the many teachers I interviewed regarding the state text book ques-tionProfessor Wilson, principal of the Arlington school, who is of late from California, said all the teachrom Cantorna, said an the teach-ers and people generally are sore over their centralized text book uniformity of that state. Mr. Wilson says the same of Indiana and Illinois, and further, Missouri adopted a uniformity of text books and the first legislature thereafter repealed it. Professor Wilson "has been there," and hence he knows whereof he speaks.

I feel perfectly safe in saying that 140 out of the 140 teachers of this county oppose the state uniformity.
